

NEW YORK WILL PROBABLY GET NEXT YEAR'S BIG FOOTBALL GAME

PENNSY SEEKS A CHANGE OF AIR.

Quaker Football Squad Goes to Delaware Water Gap for a Few Days.

READY FOR HARVARD MEN.

The Crimson Players Line Up for the Last Time and Do Very Well, Indeed.

Philadelphia, Nov. 17.—Following the custom which has prevailed for the past four years, the University of Pennsylvania football eleven, accompanied by a dozen substitutes, left at 9 o'clock this morning in a special car for the Delaware Water Gap. Coach Woodruff believes there is nothing so beneficial to a football player after the finishing touches have been put on as a change of scene, and the fresh mountain air.

Ten days previous to the Princeton-Pennsylvania game at Princeton, in 1904, Woodruff and his band of warriors sought seclusion in the Blue Mountains. Previous to their departure there were rumors in circulation to the effect that several of the players had gone stale. When the team returned on the eve of the big game at Trenton the men were in the pink of condition and the way in which they acquitted themselves is a matter of history.

With the exception of Quarter Back Weeks, who is suffering from stomach trouble, and who was unable to go through the practice yesterday, the eleven is still in excellent trim. The players have been in the gymnasium since the first of the season, and the roughness of the game has not affected them. He has an able substitute, however, in Hedges.

HARVARD'S LAST LINE UP.

Cambridge, Nov. 17.—The last Harvard line-up between the Varsity and the scrub took place this afternoon. It was lively play throughout by both elevens and Coach Forney had good reason to say, "Well done," when the second quarter opened on the field. The scrub was only able to hold the Varsity once, and was never able to gain for any length of time. The interference was extremely good, and the scrubs moved quicker than they have in some time.

Haughton fumbled a couple of times, but that goes without saying. Otherwise the play was very good. The scrubs were in good interference, and in his usual dodging way made gain after gain. Dibble's dodging today was of the highest order, and won the applause of the crowd. The scrubs were in good interference, and in his usual dodging way made gain after gain. ASK $10 FOR 32 SEATS. Speculation in Yale-Princeton Football Tickets Reaches Top Notch Figures.

New Haven, Nov. 17.—It is believed that the top notch was reached in the speculation for tickets to the Yale-Princeton game this morning. A few seats were sold for $12 each. The prevailing price is $10 for 32 seats and $8 for 15 seats.

Nearly every leading hotel of this city has every room engaged for the crowd coming. In many cases prices have been raised in anticipation of the rush.

MORE TOLL GATE RIOTS.

Immense Mob Plays Havoc on Five of the Pikes Near Mechanicsville, Ky.

Nicholasville, Ky., Nov. 17.—A mob last night raided the toll gates in this locality. Eight gates on five of the pikes were destroyed.

One of the gates was within the limits of this city and kept by a woman. There were four divisions of the mob, with about 25 in each division. The keepers were all warned to quit.

News for Cyclists.

The Harlan Wheelman has finally a newspaper of their own. It is called the Harlan Bulletin, and its principal mission here below is to tell the Harlanites what is really going on in the town. It is published by the Harlan Bulletin Co., 101 Main St., Harlan, Ky.

One hundred per cent of the bicycle riders in Harlan and the vicinity have agreed to ride the Madison Avenue Road in the winter time. The Harlan Bulletin Co. has been asked to issue a card to the riders, who have been asked to ride the Madison Avenue Road in the winter time.

A Philadelphia computer, eight years old by the name of Richard Lee Shaw, has made a discovery. Without much doubt he will hold the record at the champion by century rider of the country.

Percy dropped a goal from the field. It was high in the air, and not particularly well aimed. In fact, it was so slow that the scrubs might have leisurely climbed a fence and still reached him, as it was, the weak scrubs line at once blocked him. Still Percy was pleased with the result, and he was not a little surprised when Mills took his place, and Donald limped into Mills' place at right tackle. The effect of the game was very good, whose rapid healing for a wonder, was not knocked out of him.

Just now there is a little attempt to put everybody in the dark as to who will be Dibble's running mate. Of course after Saturday's good play, if he can recover in time for the Princeton game, he is certain to be his position. Your correspondent asked Trainer Lathrop about Warren's condition, and was told that he would not be in condition, whereas Assistant Trainer Harrison seemed to have no doubt that he would be in the field.

Pennsylvania Railroad Says It Cannot Handle the Crowds at Princeton.

WILL NOT RUN ANY RISKS.

The Ultimatum Will Effect the Faculties' Resolution Regarding College Grounds.

PRACTICE OF THE ELEPHENS.

Both Teams Show Fine Form in the Work of Preparing for Next Saturday's Great Battle.

PRINCETON, Nov. 17.—There is now a good-sized probability that next year's great annual football game between Yale and Princeton will be held in New York City on Manhattan Field or the Polo Grounds. This will be pleasant news to the thousands of football-loving Gothamites, who have always patronized the big games so well and had come to think the Yale-Princeton contest a regular institution.

It was learned tonight that the Pennsylvania Railroad management had sent a communication to the Princeton football authorities that they would not take the responsibility of handling the enormous crowd that would invade Princeton next year to witness the Yale-Princeton game, which, as it stands at present, is scheduled for this place. The Pennsylvania people have their refusal upon the fact that their facilities for handling a large number of people are inadequate and that the danger would be too great.

This declaration is couched in polite but positive terms and seems to leave the possibility of playing next year's game here. This ultimatum will also seriously effect the resolution determined upon by the faculties of Princeton and the trustees in having all gridiron contests between the two universities played at either New Haven or Princeton, and in all probability New York City will be the scene of next year's gridiron battle.

KELLY DONS HIS TOGS.

The Great Halfback Will Play on the Princeton Team Against Yale on Saturday.

PRINCETON, Nov. 17.—"King" Kelly, last year's famous line bucking half back, received the greatest ovation ever accorded a Princeton athlete this afternoon when he appeared on the gridiron in football togs for the first time in three weeks. The whole undergraduate body were present and Kelly's presence was taken as a good omen for victory in the Yale game. His appearance, in truth, was a great surprise to every one. But Trainer "Jack" McManis was a large sized grin when he informed the Journal man that Kelly had recovered from the injury to his shoulder in time to get a little practice prior to the contest with Old Eli.

This star player is not in the best of condition, and if he starts in the Yale game he will hardly be able to play more than the first half. Ever Captain Cochran did not think he could get into shape, but the cause of his recovery can be traced to a little ancient history. Before Kelly entered Princeton he was matriculated at Yale and sought to win fame on the Yale gridiron, but the wise men of Eli's football informed him that no crimpies need apply. He left Yale and entered Princeton. What was Yale's loss proved to be old Nassau's gain, for Kelly has developed into the best first baseman and line bucking half back that has ever worn orange and black.

As this is his first and last opportunity to play against Yale, Kelly will probably be a senior, fifteen hours could not drag him away until he is so badly hurt that he can't play.

Johnny Baird on a Sick Bed.

Kelly's appearance this afternoon, coupled with the announcement that he will play against Yale, was nearly equalized by the news that Johnny Baird was to be on a sick bed with a severe attack of tonsillitis. Baird, who has been a star player in the Yale game, even if he recovers sufficiently to play, he won't last longer than the first half. The Princeton team is severely handicapped in the kicking department, besides losing an invaluable quarter back.

The practice this afternoon in the first half was very good. The Princeton team played well, and the Yale team played well. The Princeton team played well, and the Yale team played well.

Cochran's New Scheme.

In fifteen minutes' hard play the Varsity scored two touchdowns. The interference was somewhat ragged, but there was a pleasing snap and dash which stoned for other defects. The team was excellent. The Varsity introduced when Captain Cochran gave the plunk to the scrubs on the field. The Yale team was very good. The Princeton team played well, and the Yale team played well.

Off Day for Tod Sloan.

London, Nov. 17.—In the race for the Ood by Pace at the last day's racing of the London November meeting today Tod Sloan rode Mr. Murphy's three-year-old colt, Ood, to victory. Sloan's colt, Ood, was a very good horse. Sloan's colt, Ood, was a very good horse. Sloan's colt, Ood, was a very good horse.

Murphy Shows Affluence.

C. M. Murphy, who rode a paced mile straightaway, November 12, over the Twenty-second avenue course, Brooklyn, in the reported time of 1:40.45, yesterday exhibited the photographic apparatus of those who held watches during the performance. He was very close to the time, and he was very close to the time.

Westlake Elected Chief Consul.

Harford, Nov. 17.—The Board of Review, of the Connecticut Division of the L. A. W., did not finish counting the mail vote until 4 o'clock this afternoon. The vote was 1,025 out of 1,100. Westlake, of Bridgeport, for Chief Consul, receiving 514 and A. A. Howell, of Rockville, 506. The result of 514 votes was declared valid owing to defects.

A NEW SONG FOR YALE.

Sousa and Hopper Compose Verses for the Elis to Sing on Saturday. The Team's Practice.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 17.—The weather and field were perfect for football this afternoon. In contrast to the rain and mud of the last two days. The players showed the effects in their fast, lively work. The practice was, on the whole, satisfactory, though it is evident that Yale's centre men need considerably more watching and improvement before they can hold Princeton's veteran line. The backs are playing well together. Improvement in interference is especially noticeable. Dudley has been given his old position at left half, and is fast getting into shape.

The scrub practice was much shorter than usual. The open work began with a game between the scrub eleven and the freshmen. It was desired to give the latter strong practice in preparation for their game with the Harvard freshmen next Saturday. The playing was very close. Both sides showed strong offensive qualities, but were weaker on the defensive. Neither side was able to score and after fifteen minutes' play the game was stopped with the ball in the centre of the field. Coaches Hickey, Sanford and Butterworth gave considerable attention to the freshmen.

The Varsity at Top Speed.

The Varsity then lined up and went through ten minutes' of hard signal practice at the top of their speed. The work was clean and showed the excellent condition of the men by the zest with which they went into it. The eleven exhibited commendable speed in getting down on McBride's punts. The latter is kicking up to his best form, and with Princeton, is expected to better the showing that he made against Harvard.

A number of the Varsity men and substitutes were then set to kicking and tumbling about the field with the squad of coaches gathered around the centre men and drilled them against their scrub opponents. Special attention was given to Caldwell. Stillman, who has just arrived, devoted all his attention to him and brought about a decided improvement in his work.

The team is in the best physical condition, except for Caldwell, who has a bruised leg. Besides Stillman, Wallace and Knapp swelled the crowd of coaches to-day.

Sousa Writes a Song for Yale.

The following song, written by Sousa and De Wolf Hopper, has been presented to the university and will be sung at the game Saturday to the tune of "El Capitán" march.

Yale is a game to-day. Just watch us kick the Old Tiger out. Yale will show the way. Show orange and black clean up the spot. Our team's a scorner.

Work as they counter. The fight's all over but the shout. Atm! Atm! Atm! For Nassau's shout! To Nassau! To Nassau's shout!

O'CONNOR RIDES FOUR FAVORITES.

Father Bill's Jockey Lands Two Winners, but Fails on the Others at Bennings.

LADIES' DAY HELPS CROWD

Steeplechase Doesn't Pan Out as Well as Its Promoters Expected It Would.

Washington, Nov. 17.—O'Connor, Father Bill Day's clever light weight jockey, had the centre of the stage at Bennings to-day. He was selected to pilot the favorite in the first four races. The first two of his mounts, Aurora and Ella Day, he succeeded in landing first at the finish, and his admirers were prepared to sweep the card, but on Bahadur in the third and Handpress in the fourth event, third money was his share of the purse. In both cases where he was defeated his riding was well the standard of the earlier events. It is that he can ride very well.

It is better than those of the early days. A day's racing, while nothing to boast of in the way of quality, proved fully up to expectations, and the best crowd of the week was on hand to enjoy it. The fact that it was ladies' day brought out many new faces, and it promises are kept they will be seen again before the meeting ends.

The petitions to the stewards seeking a restoration to good standing of Turley Brothers and their horses, which has been generously indulged, was handed to the stewards during the afternoon and by them forwarded to the Jockey Club without comment. This, of course, was expected, as the case had already been submitted to headquarters. The men in whose interest the movement is made evidently do not expect the slightest leniency, as they have shipped their horses West with the exception of the two-year-old Jack Donahue, which they sold to W. A. Porter.

Timothy, who was taken sick just before going to the post yesterday, died this morning. Perhaps it was his death that was responsible for the unusual liberality on the part of the stewards to return all money bet on him yesterday. This was not expected, and those benefited had nothing to say for the loss.

The steeplechase for gentlemen riders aimed to bring the contest its promoters expected. Brock beat Edeline by a gallop. Ben Bolt, the other starter, fell, and his rider, Mr. Page, was considerably cut up. Phil Brown, the owner of the horse, although very lame from a recent accident, mounted him where he had fallen, and took him over the course for third money. It was a plucky ride, and well merited the applause he received. There was considerable talk as to the cause of Mr. Page's fall. While in the paddock before the race, he fell from a fence, and may have had intended backing the son of King Bolt declined to bet.

Break of Day finished second in the fifth race, but was disqualified for a very flagrant foul. Had Sanger, who rode him, been able to keep her straight, she would have won. Summary: The first race, all races winners barred; second race, all races winners barred; third race, all races winners barred; fourth race, all races winners barred; fifth race, all races winners barred.
